Notice is given of the Branch's AGM

Wednesday 14 August 2019, 7:00pm
Annie Wyatt Room, National Trust Building, Observatory Hill.

Business will include approval of the Minutes of the 2018 AGM, the Chairs' Report on the Branch's activities, presentation of the audited Statements of Accounts, and election of Committee Members. The AGM will be preceded by light refreshments between 6-7pm and followed a talk by Margaret Betteridge.

Margaret Betteridge has worked in the museum and heritage sector for over 30 years as a curator and exhibition developer. Following a successful career at the Museum of Applied Arts and Sciences where she played a central role in redeveloping the former Royal Mint and Hyde Park Barracks as museums, Margaret was appointed to the Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet as Fine Arts Adviser to oversee the Australian Government's official gifts program and to advise the occupants of Australia's four official residences on furnishings and artworks. Her most recent project for the City of Sydney, where she manages the collection of the City's artworks, furnishings and memorabilia has been the exhibition, Cartographica: Sydney on the Map.

Margaret's talk will explore some of the intriguing interpretations of the representation of the landscape of our city which feature in the exhibition Cartographica: Sydney on the Map. Using reproductions of maps in public collections, she has traced some of the many and varied ways that people have documented the impacts of change as Sydney has grown.

Cartographica: Sydney on the Map was a joint winner in the 2019 National Trust's Heritage Award in the exhibition, events and tours category. The exhibition is on at Customs House over three levels and runs until 1 September 2019.

Margaret Betteridge,
Curator, City of Sydney Civic Collection
