

AUSTRALIA ICOMOS PRESENTATION

To investigate the best new global models of visitor accessibility and experience at heritage sites and museums.

The Urbis heritage team is proud to be hosting an Australia ICOMOS presentation.

Our guest will be the dynamic Dr Caroline Butler-Bowdon the Director of Strategy & Engagement at Sydney Living Museums. Spanning 20 years, her stellar career has been dedicated to cultural leadership that connects diverse audiences to history, arts and heritage through a broad range of public engagement programs, including festivals, exhibitions and literature. She is also a 2017 Churchill Fellowship recipient.

Her extraordinary travels and study were focused on an investigation of the best new global models of visitor accessibility and experience at heritage sites and museums. Caroline will present her findings and learnings on the best new global models of visitor accessibility and experience at heritage sites - the structures, the programs and the methods.
