Best Practice in Managing Heritage Places

A 6 day advanced professional development short course presented at Port Arthur

Awarded the ANU's 2010 Vice-Chancellor's 'Excellence in Education' prize

Date: 3-9 August 2014

Venue: The Port Arthur Historic Site, Tasman Peninsula, Tasmania

Time: 6 day short course

Cost: AUD $2,750 (incl.GST) including on-site accommodation, most meals and ground transport on arrival at Hobart airport.

Details: This course focuses on best practice in managing heritage places. The intensive topic is based at a key world heritage site in Australia, Port Arthur, Tasmania, and will include heritage experts with a wide range of local and international experience in the field of heritage management. Issues relating to the documentation of heritage sites as well as heritage management practice are explored directly with expert Port Arthur staff.

Australian and international examples of heritage management methodology and practice from a wide range of sites will be discussed and opportunities will be provided for an exploration of management issues provided by participants.

Participants will have the opportunity to learn practical heritage management skills, as well as gaining a thorough understanding of the theoretical and political issues relating to cultural heritage management.

The course will be presented by leading industry practitioners, Professor Sharon Sullivan and Dr Michael Pearson, as well as staff of Port Arthur Historic Site and the Australian National University.
