

ICOMOS International Scientific Committee on Interpretation and Presentation of Cultural Heritage Sites

Call for Expressions of Interest for ICIP Membership

Submission deadline: 23 November 2020

Expressions of interest are invited from those with an interest / experience in the interpretation and presentation of cultural heritage sites to join ICIP—the ICOMOS International Scientific Committee on the Interpretation and Presentation of Cultural Heritage Sites.

ICIP researches and promotes the understanding, protection, conservation and management of the interpretation of cultural heritage sites. Interpretation is one of the most important areas of ICOMOS. It helps people understand why heritage sites should be valued and protected, addresses topical and relevant issues such as climate change, rights-based heritage, sustainability, the decolonisation of history and heritage and recovery from COVID-19.

Membership is available as a General Member, Expert Member or Associate Member.

A General Member of ICIP can be a non-member of ICOMOS and be interested in the interpretation and presentation of cultural heritage sites.

An Expert Member of ICIP must be a member of ICOMOS and have expertise in the interpretation and presentation of cultural heritage sites. Experts must be willing to contribute to discussions about how interpretation can address climate change, assist recovery from COVID-19 and involve communities in the interpretation and presentation of cultural heritage sites. An Expert Member must be a member of ICOMOS and is expected to contribute to the activities and objectives of ICIP.

An Associate Member of ICIP will be interested in gaining knowledge and building up expertise in areas relevant to the objectives of the ICIP and also must be a member of ICOMOS. An Associate member is expected to contribute to the activities and objectives of the ICIP.

We particularly encourage early career ICOMOS members (Emerging Professionals) to apply. Emerging Professionals are individual members of ICOMOS who are students or in the early stage of their careers. An Emerging Professional may be a General Member, Expert Member or an Associate Member as described above.
