Duldig Studio welcomes Australia's Austrian Ambassador

We were thrilled to welcome the Austrian Ambassador, His Excellency Mr. Wolfgang Lukas Stohmayer to Duldig Studio on his visit to Melbourne this month. Mr. Stohmayer toured the museum and sculpture garden, along with special guests Dr. and Mrs. Pryles and Eva Hussain. They talked about the life and legacy of the Duldig family in Australia, preservation of Austrian culture and Eva de Jong-Duldig's book, 'Driftwood – Escape and survival through art'.

2021 Bronze Editions Catalogue launched in style!

We have officially launched our 2021 Bronze Editions Catalogue. On April 29 we unveiled a new bronze casting of Karl Duldig's 'Abstract' sculpted in 1968. Guest speaker Dr. Alison Inglis spoke about the history of Karl's sculpture and the posterity of his legacy through bronze casting both during and after his lifetime.

Building on bronze developments, the Studio has also created an exciting addition to its merchandise range; 'Colt' was first made in 1976 and is now available as an exclusive gift and collector's piece. See our online shop for details.

Download a copy of the catalogue here. If you would like to place an order for your own bronze edition, email bronzes@duldig.org.au.

Deakin University and Glen Eira Historical Society visit Duldig Studio

We've recently had some wonderful groups come through Duldig Studio for educational talks and guided tours!

On April 20, museum director Lyndel Wischer spoke and introduced key museum concepts to a group of Deakin University students, accompanied by Dr. Jonathan Sweet, from the School of Humanities and Social Sciences at Deakin.

The Glen Eira Historical Society visited Duldig Studio on April 29, and enjoyed viewing the 'A Living Legacy' exhibition, along with exploring our lovely autumnal sculpture garden.

If you would like to book in your own group tour, email enquires@duldig.org.au
