The Mint Inc. is currently re-branding to become Working Heritage and is a 'for purpose', self-funding organisation that manages properties of heritage significance on public land across Victoria. With a diverse property portfolio, the organisation is responsible for the conservation, ongoing maintenance, management and commercialisation of sites with a key focus of ensuring the heritage significance is maintained for future generations to appreciate.

Reporting to the Committee of Management, this role will drive the strategic direction and operations of the organisation and position it for further growth. Leveraging off the new brand, you will build strong awareness and understanding of the organisation within the community and promote the organisation throughout the market.

This is a key leadership role requiring commercial acumen together with a strong background in asset and project management and an understanding of/interest in heritage conservation issues. You will have a track record of successfully interacting with diverse stakeholders and the ability to think both strategically and operationally.
