

AUSTRALIA ICOMOS PRESENTS

HERITAGE PATHWAYS 2021

Saturday 20 November 2021
Online Symposium

Join Australia ICOMOS for Heritage Pathways 2021, a half-day symposium exploring issues that are important to early career professionals and academics, as well as innovations in cultural heritage practice. We are seeking short papers, or 'snapshots', that critically respond to one or more of the following provocations:

- Where is the cultural heritage profession currently and where are we going?
- What impact has the COVID-19 pandemic had on the profession, including successive lockdowns in some states and territories?
- What new approaches and issues are important to emerging cultural heritage professionals and academics looking towards the future?
- How is current research and policy responding to issues of social justice, sustainability and climate change, intangible values, Reconciliation and decolonising places and approaches?
- How can we ensure that cultural heritage is relevant to all people within the community, beyond professional or academic disciplines?
- How can established cultural heritage practitioners work with early career professionals to future-proof the cultural heritage profession?

Call for Papers

Want to be involved? Please submit a 100 word abstract (6-minute presentation) and 50 word bio to heritagepathways2021@gmail.com by Friday 29 October 2021. We welcome submissions from postgraduate candidates in both coursework and research programs, and early career professionals and practitioners working in or alongside the cultural heritage field. The symposium will be open to attendees at all stages of their careers.
