1.1 Study Tour to Shared Built Heritage in Japan, October 15 – 24, 2015

The study tour was a great success: 20 SBH members from 9 countries joined the study tour.

We learnt a lot about the treatment of Shared Built Heritage in Japan and had excellent help from the Japanese Colleagues of ICOMOS Japan. They gave us a profound introduction into the legal and administrative Heritage Management in Japan and provided us with insider information at each site.

What is the Shared Built Heritage in Japan? After the Meiji Restauration in 1868, Japan adopted many foreign (western) influences affecting most aspects of life - in science and industrialization, from clothes to food, entertainment and to architecture.

The fast growing industry, the new administration of the Meiji government, for schools, universities, the army and for a growing population – all needed many new buildings. All of this was impossible to be handled in the traditional Japanese way, by traditional carpenters and craftsmen. The rebuilding phase during this period of rapid social change created a very interesting architecture by the end of the 19th and into beginning of the 20th centuries (during the Meiji, Taisho and Showa Periods).

Many buildings were designed by invited foreign architects or by Japanese architects and engineers who returned to Japan after being sent to study in foreign countries. Building works were carried out by Japanese craftsmen, who used and incorporated their Japanese skills, methods and construction materials. This resulted in a real Shared Built Heritage!

ICOMOS INTERNATIONAL SCIENTIFIC COMMITTEE ON SHARED BUILT HERITAGE

Amongst art and architecture historians, this kind of architecture was scientifically neglected until the 1990s. In 1996 an amendment to the Japanese cultural property act introduced a new category of built heritage - Registered Cultural Properties. Also the two-tier system of National Treasures and Important Cultural Properties was supplemented with a new class of Registered Cultural Properties, that is for items in great need of preservation and use. The latter was initially limited to buildings and acted as a waiting list for designation onto the higher Important Cultural Properties list. A large number of mainly industrial and historic residential structures from the late Edo to the Shōwa periods were registered and protected under this system.

The idea of the SBH Study Tour was to learn about the Japanese way to protect and treat the built heritage of this era, to understand its many shared aspects, to meet colleagues who were in charge of the conservation jobs and to discuss with them their concepts and approaches.

Prior to the tour Siegfried and Sue visited the Tokyo garden suburb of Den-en-chofu.

SHB Study Tour group visited the following cities and heritage buildings.

Tokyo	Tokyo University, Tokyo National Museum, Akasaka Palace, orthodox Nikolai Cathedral, Tokyo Station Building, Ichigōkan "House No. 1", Villa Iwasaki, Kokusai Kodomo Toshokan, Teien Art Museum

Comments and general discussion about the 2015 Japan Study Tour and generally discussed Japanese conservation approaches

Tokyo

Akasaka Palace Romeo: questioned that some new materials were inconsistent in quality with general fabric

Library building: (Tadao Ando)

Railway station: generally good. Damaged in WW2, 3rd floor lost, post WW2 temp fix, 1990s restoration inc. 3rd floor, very good. JR rail supported conservation approach, plus convert part to a hotel, request from heritage authority, wanted station listed. Canopies appeared heavy, blocked views of the main façade.

JW: Rear is good, front glass entrance seemed brutal. CPE: Liked the addition.

Vents in public space in front, oversized, obscured views.

Teien Art Museum: Very fine house, well conserved.

Mitsubishi office reconstruction: Mixed opinions, it is not actually conservation.

Post Office: original proposal to redevelop, civic protest to conserve bldg and context.

Mixed opinions

Yokohama

- Specie Bank reuse as museum

- Custom House

- Red Port Warehouses (festival grounds) by one of Condor's students

CPE: good adaptive reuse

Gouhar: Successful adaptive reuses (appropriate), good conservation work

Nagoya

Meiji Mouri museum: Relocation of late 19th/early 20thC buildings which otherwise were planned to be demolished

SJS concern over financing, condition of some buildings beginning to deteriorate.

Gouhar, enriching. JW acknowledge that relocation

SE ideal intro to SBH of this period; good intro by the director and people, liked mix of building types.

Kyoto

National Museum (Arch Fujimoto): SJS felt the relationship of new and old wings was awkward and new too dominating of the original; critical of link not being subservient, more preferable to be more recessive and light weight eg glass. All concur that the link was not successful. . CPE still felt old museum was the focus

Downtown: Post office, banks

Doshishu University

Canal and pump station

Osaka

Buildings on the island. Concur that the island with its heritage buildings and public realm worked well, successful.

Central Public Hall : good exhibition hall in basement. Tutsano took over project.
SJS universal access questions – elevator to the basement level courtyard solution
Romeo: the development of the island, the ensemble, was interesting.

Ashira

Frank Lloyd Wright house was difficult to photograph, hill side and trees, needs aerial pics. Invaluable was meeting with former residents (1958-68?). Well conserved.
Very fine example of 20thC.

Kobe: commercial centre and residential district

Concession Street plan by English engineer, Hart: request by ICOMOS Japan Kobe for a picture of Hart for the planned 2016 celebrations

Kyu-Kyuro

US Consulate – reconstruction after 1996 Kobe earthquake

Kobe City Museum

Prefecture building

Former Mitsubishi Bank

Chosen-Mitsi Building

Kobe University

Sue was asked by the Kobe ICOMOS representative to assist in finding a picture of the English Engineer, John Hart. In c1870 Hart laid out the treaty port commercial district street pattern and implemented its sewerage system.

Nagasaki:

Hollanders Slope (Oranda-zaka)

Glover Garden (already on WH list as part of Nagasaki industrial heritage)

Deshima island

- Support conservation approach
- Thomas: bridge access restoration
- Romeo: Good from an educational perspective.

Christian Sites in Nagasaki: Oura Cathedral, Shitsu Church, Ono Church

- comments generally
- Romana: Christian churches – difficult to understand the theme. Missionaries, why is it so special.
- SJS noted that the WH nomination seemed to mis-understand the religious implications arising from the joint roles of Portuguese as traders concurrent with Catholic missionaries, which differed to that of the Protestant Dutch solely as traders. During the era of isolation the Dutch replaced Portuguese as they were viewed as not being focused on religious conversion, but solely on trading goods into European markets.

2. Activities in 2016

2.1 SBH Study Tour to the Boarder Region of Germany, France and Luxemburg

Study Tour of the
ICOMOS International Scientific Committee on Shared Built Heritage:
German National Committee on Shared Built Heritage in cooperation with the national committees of ICOMOS Germany, France and Luxemburg
04 to 12 September 2016

The German group of ISC SBH in cooperation with the ICOMOS National Committees of Germany, France and Luxemburg - is organizing a study tour to discuss and learn about the treatment of the shared built heritage in the boarder-region of France, Luxemburg and Germany from 4th to 12th September, 2016.

This region developed a rich and interesting shared built heritage with respect to the transfer of built heritage from one state to another due to the moving of national/territorial borders and movement of peoples arising from international treaties due to wars and conflicts in the last 2000 years.

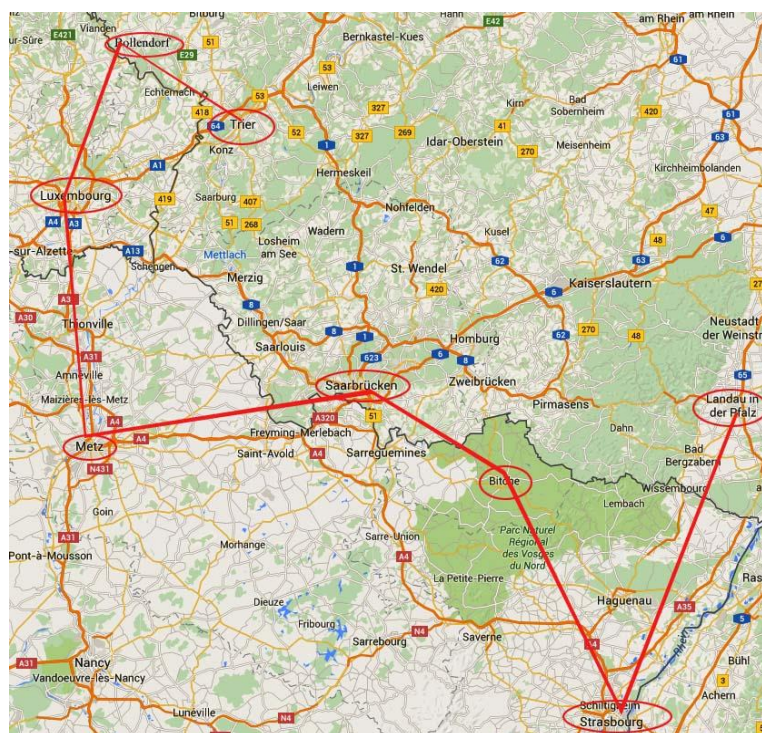

Originally populated by the Celts, the region was conquered by the Romans under the leadership of Julius Caesar 50 B.C. in the famous Gallic War. The cities of Trier, Metz and Verdun were founded according to the Roman Town Charter and developed to prosperous economical and centers of power in the new province Gallia Belgica.

After the demise of the Roman Empire the region which was shaped by the Gallo-Roman culture was captured by Germanic peoples and the eastern part was overlay by Germanic influences. The language border between French and German developed gradually during the Carolingians Reich. The existence of the border between the Romanic and Germanic language was for the first time documented in the partition treaty of Verdun 842/43 with the form of oath in two languages, French and German. Since this time there no century passed by without war and conflicts, countries were devided and newly sorted. The proud victors built striking buildings, some of them are listed today in the UNESCO WHL.

The study tour in this region should show us the significance of the “shared built heritage” in the everyday life of people of the region and how it is treated by people, the conservation and planning policy and the decision makers and stakeholders.

Tour route (red line) will include:

Trier – Bollendorf – Luxemburg-
Metz – Saarbrücken – Bitche –
Straßbourg –Selestat - (Landau)

3.2. Congress in Lisboa, Portugal 5-8 July 2017

The International Congress Preserving transcultural heritage: your way or my way?,
- a partnership between University of Lisbon, ICOMOS Portugal, and ISC SBH.

At a time of generalized globalization, which generates more and more miscegenation at almost every level of our existence, cultural frontiers also tend to fade substantially. This same globalization that began centuries ago with trade, technology, culture, politics and military exchanges between different people, increasing progressively its intensity until the present, became itself originator of a heritage created exactly in the meeting of cultures. This new transcultural heritage (or hybrid heritage) presents a whole range of different complexities that could make the safeguarding and preservation for the coming generations complicated. All the concerned community is invited to participate in the International Congress Preserving transcultural heritage: your way or my way? is opened to academic scholars and specialist technicians, to policy makers and to all of society.

The International Congress will take place at the School of Arts and Humanities
University of Lisbon
(Faculdade de Letras da Universidade de Lisboa), located in the
Alameda da Universidade (Campo Grande).

According to the statutes, the Bureau is obliged to review the membership details and submit this to Paris.

Data to be updated include change of contact details, membership activities, actual status, etc.)

You will be approached in the next weeks to help us with tis administrative job.

5. Vale Romana!

IN MEMORIAM

Prof. Dr. Romana Cielatkowska

With great sadness we are obliged to inform you of the sudden death of our friend and member. The sudden death on 22nd January 2016 of Prof. Dr. Romana Cielatkowska was completely unexpected to all of us all, and those who knew her within the Shared Built Heritage ISC.

Romana was our Shared Built Heritage representative for Eastern Europe. She joined the committee in 2008 and was the prime mover to open up the interpretation of “shared built heritage” with respect to the transfer of built heritage from one state to another due to the moving of national/territorial borders and movement of peoples arising from international treaties due to wars, conflicts, etc.

Romana hosted our 2009 Shared Built Heritage AGM meeting. In cooperation with ISC SBH she organized several conferences concerning shared built heritage in Poland, at Gdansk (her home city), Paslek, Marianka, Krakow and Gdingen, and at her Faculty of Architecture, Gdańsk University of Technology which was co-hosted with the ICOMOS Polish National Committee.

Romana was also a participant of our SHB study tours of Malaysia and Indonesia in 2014 and of Japan in 2015. She attended several bureau meetings in Darmstadt, Melaka and George Town and the Fukuoka ICOMOS annual meetings as part of the Polish delegation.

She was a very warm and caring person, good company, a kind friend, and most importantly a kindred spirit with us all.

We miss her very much! Romana will be well remembered.

We hope to see and meet our members from all around the world at our activities and by engaging in e-chat with our online groups and web site.

Warmest regards
yours,

Dr. Siegfried RCT Enders
President, ICOMOS International Scientific Committee on Shared Built Heritage
