

SENIOR HERITAGE CONSULTANT, LOVELL CHEN

ABOUT THE OPPORTUNITY

Sustaining the past ... unlocking the future

Lovell Chen offers the chance to work with some of the best minds in their fields in the country. We are leaders in heritage consultancy, and we are seeking an experienced heritage consultant to join our Melbourne-based practice. We offer the opportunity to work across many facets of contemporary cultural heritage management and architecture — with excellent scope for career growth and development — and the chance to inspire and be inspired.

The core role is the delivery of heritage services to a wide-ranging private sector and government client base, in Victoria and nationally. The primary responsibility is the preparation of — and contribution to — advisory, strategic and statutory heritage-related advice and reports. These include due diligence pre-acquisition advice, heritage appraisals, impact assessments, conservation and heritage management plans and master plans. Reflecting the dynamic nature of heritage management more broadly, a keen interest in contemporary heritage thinking is required, and an awareness of recent developments.

ABOUT YOU

You will hold an honours or postgraduate degree in a relevant field, such as architecture, history, planning, heritage management or archaeology, and will have at least seven years' experience as a consultant focused on heritage, or the equivalent experience in government. You will be able to demonstrate your ability to work effectively and collaboratively in a team environment.

Key knowledge and skills required include:

- Excellent written and verbal communications skills
- Demonstrated ability to complete projects to a high standard, on time and to budget
- Comprehensive technical knowledge of local, state and national heritage legislation and guidelines, the Burra Charter and other relevant documents — and experience in their application
- Proven ability to independently manage the delivery of heritage services and projects
- Proven ability to provide heritage advice and guidance to clients and team members, operating within relevant statutory and legislative frameworks
- Demonstrated ability in developing relationships with clients, new and existing
- Demonstrated experience in the preparation of proposals and bids for heritage projects

WHY LOVELL CHEN?

Lovell Chen combines architects and designers with heritage consultants, planners, conservation specialists, historians and researchers and other specialists working with the built environment. We are a dynamic, innovative practice in the way we approach our work — bringing together strategic thinking, design skills, technical expertise, research and experience. We offer the opportunity to work with motivated and talented people on heritage projects of different types and scales. Our multi-disciplinary heritage team includes specialists in building, heritage planning, history, interpretation and architectural history, and our clients are varied, across government and non-government sectors.

WORKPLACE ARRANGEMENTS

Lovell Chen is committed to the safety and wellbeing of employees, clients, contractors, consultants and members of the public during the COVID pandemic. We have full flexibility for employees to work from home in response to Government imposed snap lockdowns, or work between the office and home based on the limitations established regulations.

APPLICATIONS

Applications should be addressed to Anne-Marie Treweeke atreweek@lovellchen.com.au. Your application should include a CV and covering letter outlining your experience, as well as your contact details. Please do not send more than five A4 sheets. Video submissions are accepted.

Applications close 19 August 2021.

Lovell Chen is an equal opportunities employer.
