

HISTORIAN, LOVELL CHEN

ABOUT THE OPPORTUNITY

Lovell Chen offers the chance to work with some of the best minds in their fields in the country. We are leaders in heritage consultancy, and we are seeking an experienced historian to join our Melbourne-based practice. We offer the opportunity to work across many facets of contemporary cultural heritage management — with excellent scope for career growth and development — and the chance to inspire and be inspired.

The core requirement of the role is to conduct historical research and analysis utilising a broad range of primary and secondary sources. The outcomes will inform and explain the historical significance of buildings, sites, precincts and artefacts, and will be incorporated into a broad range of reports, including heritage appraisals, significance assessments impact statements and conservation management plans.

Salary range $80-$110,000 + superannuation, commensurate with experience.

ABOUT YOU

You will hold an honours or postgraduate degree in history, and will have at least five years' experience in an academic or institutional setting in historical research and analysis or within the heritage consulting sector. You will have a strong background in Australian history and in preference a working knowledge of the history of Victoria and Melbourne. You will be able to demonstrate your ability to work effectively and collaboratively in a team environment.

Key knowledge and skills required include:

- Excellent written and verbal communication skills with the ability to write clearly, succinctly and to a high standard for a range of audiences.
- Advanced skills in historical research.
- Advanced skills in report templating and graphics.
- Excellent time management and organisational skills.
- Ability to prioritise tasks and conflicting requirements and work to deadlines.

WHY LOVELL CHEN?

Lovell Chen combines architects and designers with heritage consultants, planners, conservation specialists, historians and researchers and other specialists working with the built environment. We are a dynamic, innovative practice in the way we approach our work — bringing together strategic thinking, design skills, technical expertise, research and experience. We offer the opportunity to work with motivated and talented people on heritage projects of different types and scales. Our multi-disciplinary heritage team includes specialists in building, heritage planning, history, interpretation and architectural history, and our clients are varied, across government and non-government sectors.

WORKPLACE ARRANGEMENTS

We support individual needs and offer a range of flexible work arrangements. By joining Lovell Chen you will be covered under our income protection insurance for a range of situations.

APPLICATIONS

Your application should include a CV and covering letter outlining your experience, as well as your contact details. Please do not send more than five A4 sheets. Video submissions are accepted.

Applications are open until Thursday 30 March 2022.

Lovell Chen is proud to be an equal opportunity workplace and affirmative action employer. We actively promote an inclusive workplace culture and encourage people from Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander and diverse cultural backgrounds to apply.