Tasman Peninsula History Society - Open Day and Talk at Premaydena

The Tasman Peninsula Historical Society will hold an open day and present a talk on Wednesday, June 18, relating to the World War I exhibition, Local Heroes which is on display at the Society's rooms in the Old Court-House, 1 Jones Road, Premaydena.

The Court-House will be open on that day from noon till 4pm, and at 2pm Dr Lysbeth Ford and James Parker will give an illustrated talk about the exhibition and the Peninsula's involvement in the Great War.

Dr Ford, Susan Landy and Anne Courtney researched the men commemorated on the Tasman WWI Roll of Honour, and their work was turned into a series of striking A2 size posters featuring the mens' service, their photos and a selection of documents relating to them, both official and personal.

Lysbeth will talk about how the exhibition came about, and the personal stories excavated from the official records—James will attempt to relate those personal stories to the political and military history of the war.

All welcome, gold coin donation to aid the work of the Society.
