

Institute for Professional Practice in Heritage and the Arts

Advanced professional development courses in heritage management at Port Arthur

The Port Arthur Historic Site Management Authority and IPPHA are pleased to announce two professional development advanced short courses that will provide a unique professional development opportunity for participants who enrol as part of IPPHA's programs. The courses will provide an unparalleled opportunity to build advanced skills while getting to know two of Australia's most outstanding heritage sites (the Port Arthur and Coal Mines Historic Sites), both of which will be considered by the World Heritage Committee for listing later this year as part of the Australian Convict Sites World Heritage Nomination.

The courses will be offered as professional development opportunities to experienced practitioners working in the heritage sector seeking to enhance their skills. They will also be offered as topics in the cultural and environmental heritage stream of the Graduate Program in the Liberal Arts at the Australian National University.

The advanced professional development short courses are;

World Heritage: Conserving Cultural Heritage Values

5-9 July at Port Arthur (5 days)

The course will be taught by a team of highly-regarded heritage professionals including Professor Sharon Sullivan, the Honorable Dr Barry Jones, Joan Domicelj, Kristal Buckley and Dr Jane Harrington. Other Port Arthur and ANU staff will also assist.

Best Practice in Managing Heritage Places

27 September - 1 October at Port Arthur (5 days)

The course will be taught by eminent heritage professionals Dr Michael Pearson and Professor Sharon Sullivan. Port Arthur and ANU staff will also assist.

Further details for each course are available on the IPPHA website at:
<http://rsh.anu.edu.au/ippha>.

Research School of Humanities & the Arts
ANU College of Arts & Social Sciences

Institute for Professional Practice in Heritage and the Arts

