

PORT ARTHUR TALKS

Port Arthur Penitentiary Precinct Conservation Project 2014

presented by Michael Pender

One of Tasmania's most recognisable landmarks, the Penitentiary at Port Arthur, is being conserved in a project costing more than $7million. Expected to take around ten months, the project seeks to ensure the structural integrity of the Penitentiary for future generations.

Michael Pender will outline the Penitentiary Precinct Conservation Project. The presentation will provide an overview of the multidisciplinary project planning, the unique considerations which drove the structural design solution and the conservation and interpretative works which have been incorporated within the project.

Michael is the Director of HPA Projects, based in Sydney. He has extensive experience in heritage projects throughout Australia and internationally.
