

In association with our In House partner

THE ART DECO AND MODERNISM SOCIETY OF NSW & ACT Inc

Scott Robertson on the work of Robertson & Hindmarsh Architects, 1953-1977

Friday 30th November 2018
AIA Tusculum Auditorium, Potts Point

AGM at 6:15 for 6:30 pm Scott Robertson's Talk at 7.15 pm

Scott Robertson is the son of architect Bruce Robertson and grew up living next door to his father's iconic architecture studio on top of the bluff at Seaforth. Bruce Stewart Robertson was in partnership with Thomas Joseph ("Jack") Hindmarsh from 1953 until 1977 and the firm, B.S. Robertson & Hindmarsh, designed houses, town houses, garden apartments, high rise apartments and factories. Scott will discuss the work of the firm from 1953 until he joined the firm in 1977.

Scott Robertson is an architect in private practice in Sydney having worked for almost 35 years since graduation. He has an Honours Degree in Architecture, a Master's Degree in Building Conservation, and has a PhD in traditional Javanese architecture.

He is the author of chapters in books and articles in refereed (and non-refereed) journals. He was the author of "The Architecture of The Astor" 2003, and author of the chapter, "Everyman's Castle: Housing in NSW 1918-1942", in Art Deco in Australia: Sunrise over the Pacific. He is also the author of a number of entries in the recently-published Encyclopedia of Australian Architecture, 2011. He also authored a refereed article, "Challenges in Protecting 1960s Architect-Designed Houses", Conservation of Modern Architecture (special issue of Journal of Architectural Conservation).

Attached photo:

Robertson & Hindmarsh studio, Seaforth (Photo: David Moore, 1958, courtesy Robertson & Hindmarsh P/L archives)

BOOKINGS: This important talk will follow the Society's AGM and is FREE to all financial Members. To Book please RSVP by email to gail@twentieth.org.au with the number of places that you wish to take up. The usual 'Eventbrite link' is not available for this event. Non members please pay at the door. Costs are: Non Members: $25 pp; Non Member Concessions $15 pp. Please notify gail@twentieth.org.au so that we can assess catering numbers.