

Heritage and sustainability: are they compatible?

Heritage organisations have become increasingly interested in the relationship between heritage conservation and sustainability.

The Queensland Heritage Council (QHC) believes that conserving heritage buildings can make an important contribution to environmental, social and economic sustainability. QHC, in association with the Queensland University of Technology's (QUT) Institute for Sustainable Resources, invites you to attend a national workshop focusing on commercial heritage buildings and sustainability.

Presenters from both industry and government will explore the link between conserving commercial heritage buildings and sustainable development.

Date: Thursday 18 November

Time: 12.00pm – 4.00pm (lunch provided)

Venue: Owen J Wordsworth Function Room

L 12, S Block, QUT, Gardens Point Campus,
2 George Street, Brisbane

For further information: admin@qldheritage.org.au

