

The Trust Talks: Opening the doors for innovation, collaboration and celebration of our heritage.

The Trust Talks: Finding the Room to Breathe: Managing the 'Setting' of Heritage Places in our Crowded and Expanding Cities

Dr Andrew Sneddon is Associate Director of Extent Heritage and Manager of its Brisbane office. His knowledge of heritage practice includes both Indigenous and non-Indigenous heritage, which has seen him work on native title matters before the Federal Court of Australia, and in Aboriginal place management, built heritage management, and international archaeology. Andrew also has specialist knowledge in the field of heritage law.

Dr MacLaren North is a Director of Extent Heritage and Manager of its Sydney office. He has over 20 years heritage management experience having worked in a senior heritage management capacity for a variety of NSW Government agencies. Mac has extensive knowledge and experience in working with industrial heritage and infrastructure projects as well as providing generalist heritage advice and consultation.

Jane Alexander is the Heritage Advocacy Advisor at the National Trust of Australia (Queensland). Jane has worked as a built heritage specialist and archaeologist in Australia for 15 years. She was the former Chair of the National Trust Industrial Heritage Committee, a previous member of the ICOMOS Australia Executive Committee and her company Ainsworth Heritage won numerous industry awards and commendations.

Date: Thursday 21st September 2017

Time: 5pm drinks and canapes. Talk commences 5:45pm

Location: The United Services Club, 183 Wickham Terrace, Spring Hill.

The United Services Club is opening their doors to The Trust for our inaugural talk. Usually only open to members of the club and their guests, this is a unique opportunity to explore the Club and see beyond the façade of this magnificent building.

Cost: National Trust Members – Free

Students: $10 | Non Members: $20

Ticket price includes drinks and canapes on arrival, a gift bag and an optional tour of the building at the conclusion of the talks. Bookings and pre-payment essential. Proof of National Trust membership or student status must be shown on the day. Free parking on site is available after 5pm (carpark access via Upper Edward Street).

We would like to thank the following sponsors for their support of our inaugural 'The Trust Talks'; United Services Club Brisbane and Extent Heritage Advisors.

Book now by calling 07 3223 6666 or email rsvp@nationaltrustqld.org